G	YOUR INVESTMENT KNOWLEDGE
	/hich of the following best describes your current knowledge of investing? /hy we're asking: The more experience you have with different types of investments and the more familiar you are with their risk/return trade-offs, the better understanding ou'll have to navigate volatile markets.
	None - I have no experience with investments and investment strategies. Limited - I have some experience with investments and investment strategies. I've invested in GICs, fixed income and equity mutual funds, but no investments in г	individual bonds and stocks.
L	Good - I have moderate experience with investments and investment strategies. I've invested in a variety of securities, including individual bonds and stocks, and I've got a good understanding of their risk/return trade-offs.
	Excellent - I have a thorough understanding of complex types of investments, their risk/return trade-offs and trading strategies related to these securities (including bonds, stocks and options).

	Stocks Alternative investments (please specify below)
٧	/hen would you be withdrawing a large amount of money from this account?
V I	/hy we're asking: The longer you keep your money invested the more flexibility you'll have when building your portfolio and managing risks.
ļ	1 to less than 3 yrs I want to set aside money for a short amount of time and won't need this money for at least a year.
ļ	<ul> <li>3 to less than 5 yrs I want to grow my money for a few years and won't need it for some time.</li> <li>5 to less than 10 yrs I want to grow my money for a moderate amount of time and won't need to withdraw it for several years.</li> </ul>
ĺ	10 yrs. and more - I want to grow my money for the long run and won't need to withdraw it.
	Vill you be using this account as a source of annual income or plan to use the balance often to cover your expenses or other financial obligations? In we're asking: The more you rely on an annual income or ongoing withdrawal amounts, the more carefully you should consider the level of risk to take on.
	$\mathbf{N}$ No - I won't be relying on an annual income from this account and/or I will rarely withdraw money from it.
[	Yes - I'll be using this account as a source of my annual income and/or will withdraw money regularly to cover expenses or other financial obligations.
	What percentage of your total savings/investible assets will this investment account represent? Why we're asking: The more of your total savings/investable assets you invest in your new adviceDirect account, the more carefully you should consider the level of risk to take on.
[	0 - 25% - I have plenty of savings/investments outside of my adviceDirect account, and my account will hold a small percentage of my total savings/investable assets.
[	<ul> <li>25 - 50% - I have a few savings/investments outside of my adviceDirect account and my account will hold a moderate percentage of my total savings/investable assets.</li> <li>50 - 75% - I have a modest amount of savings/investments outside of my adviceDirect account and my account will hold a fairly large percentage of my</li> </ul>
L	total savings/investable assets.
[	75 - 100% - I have very little saved or invested outside of my adviceDirect account and my account will hold all or nearly all of savings and investable assets.
	/hat would your initial reaction be if you lost 20% of your account equal to $20,000 of a $100,000 portfolio? /hy we're asking: We want to know your level of comfort both financially and emotionally when it comes to losses when the market fluctuates.
Ľ	That's a significant loss - I can't believe I lost 20% of my account. That's a large amount and hard for me to accept it.
Ľ	<ul> <li>I'm a little concerned - I'm not too worried right now, but it does worry me a bit that my account dropped so much.</li> <li>That's fine - I'm in this for the long haul. As long as my account has the potential to grow over the long term, I'm not too concerned about some fluctuations in the</li> </ul>
Г	<ul> <li>That's fine - I'm in this for the long haul. As long as my account has the potential to grow over the long term, I'm not too concerned about some fluctuations in the market that may affect my account.</li> <li>That's great, let's buy more - This doesn't impact or concern me. I see it as an opportunity to invest and buy more.</li> </ul>
	How would you describe your ideal investment portfolio and return objective? Your portfolio and return objective should match what you selected as your willingness o accept risk and losses. Ihy we're asking: Because risk and return are usually tied together, the more risk you're willing to take on generally means more opportunity for returns.
E	Emphasis on lower risk - I prefer an investment portfolio with a greater emphasis on lowering risk and limiting losses in the short-term, and in exchange, I am willing
E	to sacrifice return potential. A balance between return and risk - I prefer an investment portfolio that balances limiting short-term risk and losses with the potential for longer-term returns.
ļ	More emphasis on returns - I prefer an investment portfolio with more emphasis on the potential for longer-term returns as opposed to limiting short-term risk and losses.
L	Mainly focused on returns - I prefer an investment portfolio that primarily focuses on the potential for longer-term returns, with little importance placed on limiting short-term risk and losses.

H YOUR INVESTOR PROFILE

Choose the profile that you believe suits you best:

1. Income

This profile is suited to the security-conscious investor with some preference for capital preservation and limited growth. The typical Income investor is someone who depends on their investments for income. Emphasis is placed primarily on more secure asset types like cash, cash equivalents and fixed income investments, with only a limited exposure to higher yield equities. The Income investor may require cash from their investment account. They are uncomfortable with any significant fluctuation in their portfolio from year to year and are content with their portfolio keeping pace with inflation. The target asset allocation for this profile is 26% Equity and 74% Fixed income. This investor's risk tolerance varies from low to medium and they are willing to accept up to 10% of their account in riskier assets.

2. Balanced

This profile is suited to the moderate investor seeking both income and long-term growth. The Balanced investor is seeking to balance risk and return. Emphasis is placed on achieving these objectives through a mix of fixed income and growth oriented investments. This investor may occasionally require cash from their investment account. They would like their portfolio to grow slightly faster than inflation and understand that the value of their portfolio may fluctuate and are comfortable with that. The target asset allocation for this profile is 53% Equity and 47% Fixed income. The Balanced investor's risk tolerance is best described as medium and they are willing to accept up to 20% of their assets.

3. Growth

This profile is suited to the patient investor. The Growth investor is seeking investments expected to grow at an above-average rate compared to its industry or the overall market. Emphasis is placed primarily on equity investments designed to achieve growth over a longer time horizon. Less emphasis is placed on cash, cash equivalents and fixed income investments. Growth investors rarely require cash from their investment account. They would like their portfolio to grow faster than inflation and understand that the value of their portfolio may fluctuate somewhat and are comfortable with that. The target asset allocation for this profile is 80% Equity and 20% Fixed income. The Growth investor's risk tolerance is best described as medium to high and they are willing to accept up to 30% of their account in riskier assets.

4. Aggressive Growth

This profile is suited to the assertive investor. The Aggressive investor is attempting to achieve maximum returns by seeking investments that will grow at an above-average rate compared to its industry or the overall market and is willing to take on additional risk. Emphasis is placed primarily on investing in higher risk equity investments to allow for the potential of higher long-term growth. They do not require cash from their investment account. These investors would like to have their portfolio grow much faster than inflation and understand that the value of their portfolio may fluctuate significantly and are comfortable with that. The target asset allocation for this profile is 100% Equity and 0% Fixed income. The Aggressive investor's risk tolerance is best described as high and they are willing to accept up to 100% of their account in riskier securities.

NATIONAL INSTRUMENT 54-101 – SHAREHOLDER COMMUNICATION INFORMATION

We are required under Canadian securities laws to obtain your instructions concerning the various matters below relating to your holding of securities in your account. Please read the National Instrument 54-101, Communication with Beneficial Owners of Securities of a Reporting Issuer, in Section Four, Part C of the Client Agreements.

Part 1 – Disclosure of Beneficial Ownership Information

For purposes of Canadian securities laws, you may disclose my name, address, email, securities holdings and preferred language of communication (English or French) to issuers of securities I hold with you and to other persons or companies in accordance with Canadian securities laws.

🗌 Yes 🗌 No

Note: if you answer "No", you will be responsible for any costs associated with providing shareholder materials to you.

Part 2 - Receiving Securityholder Materials

For the purposes of Canadian securities laws, please m ark the corresponding box to show what materials you want to receive. Securityholder materials sent to beneficial owners of securities consist of the following materials: a) proxy-related materials for annual and special meetings; b) annual reports and financial statements that are not part of proxy-related materials; and c) materials sent to securityholders that are not required by corporate or securities law to be sent.

□ I WANT to receive ALL securityholder materials sent to beneficial owners of securities.

- □ I DECLINE to receive ALL securityholder materials sent to beneficial owners of securities. (Even if I decline to receive these types of materials, I understand that a reporting issuer or other person or company is entitled to send these materials to me at its expense).
- □ I WANT to receive ONLY proxy-related materials that are sent in connection with a special meeting.

Important Note: These instructions do not apply to any specific request you give or may have given to a reporting issuer concerning the sending of interim financial statements of the reporting issuer. In addition, in some circumstances, the instructions you give in this application form will not apply to annual reports or financial statements of an investments fund that are not part of proxy-related materials. An investment fund is entitled to obtain specific instructions from you on whether you wish to receive its annual report or financial statements.

Part 3 – Preferred Language of Communication

I understand that the materials I receive will be in my preferred language of communication if the materials are available in that language.

Part 4 – Consent to Electronic Delivery

Canadian securities law permits us to deliver some documents by electronic means if we obtain your consent.

□ I CONSENT to receiving documents by electronic means and have provided my email in section A of the application.

 $\Box$  I DO NOT CONSENT to receiving documents by electronic means.

On behalf of the beneficial owner(s) of the account(s) opened from this application, I have read and understand the explanation that you have provided me in connection with the National Instrument 54-101, Communication with Beneficial Owners of Securities of a Reporting Issuer. The choices I have indicated above apply to all of the securities held in the account(s).
